

Quarter 1 is in the books! If it didn't go the way you had hoped, it's not too late to change some of your academic strategies. Here are some tips written by students for students:

Time Management:

- Make a schedule. List out your assignments and cross them off to see your progress.
- Treat online days like face-to-face school days. Follow the bell schedule.
- Don't let assignments build up. Do them as they are assigned.
- Do the harder assignments first. Save the shorter or easier ones for last.

Learning Environment:

- Create useable space for your "at-home school days" that is free from distractions.
- Frustrated? Take a short break: go for a walk, listen to music, do some yoga.
- Eat healthy meals

Use your Resources:

- Ask your teachers for help.
- Check your school email at least once every day.
- Connect with your classmates for assistance.
- Consider getting a tutor through National Honor Society.
